REGINA STURROCK DESIGN WINS RESIDENTIAL DESIGN OVER £1M AWARD AT SBID AWARDS 2018

Regina Sturrock Design were awarded Residential Design Over £1m Award at the SBID International Design Awards 2018. The Canadian-based practice picked up the accolade for their project, Contemporary Manor, at a dazzling ceremony in the prestigious Dorchester hotel in London's Mayfair on Friday 26 October 2018.

Representing a 2.5-year, from-the-ground-up project., The Contemporary Manor is a luxury-driven family residence accumulated its intuitive layers over time. A comprehensive scope of work included planning, architectural detailing, custom features, and millwork concepts. Together with all the finer points in interior design and decor, it marked a holistic approach where architecture and art would connect. Upon entering the home, there is an immediate sense of quiet luxury that may best be defined through the subtleties in beautiful materials, classical order and a clean-lined sensibility.

The first-impressions great hall, a cocooned inner hall, and the commanding two-storey great room represent an enfilade of harmonic spaces that each play with the sparkling waters of the lake beyond. Together, they provide a successive scene of reflection and undeniable beauty.

Speaking after winning, Founder, Regina Sturrock said "This is absolutely a real moment for me, this is the third time I've been at the SBID Awards and as they say three times a charm! This is a very important project for me, it was a three year long journey that we really put a lot of heart and soul into and I'm so happy to be bringing the award home to my clients, I know that they will be massively proud".

With more entries than ever before and over 225,000 public votes, this year's SBID awards have been one of the most globally represented editions to date. They showcase industry talent across 14 categories from over 42 countries and feature projects with high-flying super brands from across the globe.

The Residential Design Over £1 Million category focuses on design trends and the wow factors of residential projects with an overall value of over £1 million. Sponsoring this category this year is Lalique. UK Managing Director Frederick Fischer said, "This year, we celebrate 130 years at Lalique, proud heirs to a rich artistic heritage which has timeless design and craftsmanship at its heart. Residential design is more dynamic and creative than ever and through our involvement with this award, we hope to help honour and support the best in the business."

Winning an SBID International Design Award is truly a high achievement; all 14 categories are assessed by a technical panel, a public vote and a panel of leading industry experts, who look for outstanding examples of technical content and aesthetic creativity which ensures that all projects are assessed strictly on quality. Now in its eighth year, the SBID Awards is regarded as one of the highest accolades of interior design excellence. As a proudly independent contest, the SBID awards are driven purely by a desire to recognise talent and creativity, with every entry fairly and equally considered. The annual event continues to reward and celebrate outstanding projects and products from the industry at large.

Judges this year included Directors and CEO's from global design corporations such as Christian Louboutin Beauté, BBC, National History Museum, Belmond, Walpole, Bentley, Google, AECOM. All winners for each category received a bespoke crystal trophy designed by Sans Souci glass deco. They will also be featured in the Global Interior Design 2018 book which is distributed to over 1000 professionals across the globe.
